Daily Nevada State Journal.

C. C. FOWNING, Editor and Proprietor.

IT IS ABSURD.

The JOURNAL has ever opposed any and every proposition looking toward the dismemberment or abandonment of Nevada as a State. It will continue to protest against even the suggestion of annexation to either Utah or California. That the State might receive its just dues it would like to see it the possessor of all the territory east of the Sierra Nevada range, to a portion of California, but whether it receives such an accession or not, the present boundaries contain sufficient territory to enable it to develop and maintain the State. We may not be as populous as New York or as fertile as California but there will be sufficient nativism here to support a respectable number of people, and an economical form of State Government, and under no circumstances will the people consent to go out of existence. For those who live here there is a good living. What there is now must be made the most of, and every effort made to create new industries, to find more mines, to cultivate more land, to encourage the stockraising field, and in the years to come there will be more people, more money, and many of the luxuries of life. It is not necessary that the present burdens shall continue. The State must carve and cut and hew until the expenses are reduced to a reasonable figure, and it is absurd to think that we shall ever find occasion to be so disgruntled as to willingly take off the Nevada star from the American flag.

THE CONFERENCE BILL.

In the final proceedings in the Senate on the Conference Silver bill Plumb spoke in its favor. The conference bill, he said, would give the country as much money during the next year as free coinage would give. The bill was a long step in the right direction. It was his belief that if the bill should become a law, so nicely and easily would it work and so helpful would it be to the people of the United States that the next step would be free coinage. He would hope for a free coinage bill, regretting that it is no better and glad that it is no worse.

After further debate a vote was taken and the conference reported was agreed to—yeas 39, nays 26, as follows:

Yeas—Aldrich, Allen, Allison, Blair, Casey, Culman, Davis, Daves, Dixon, Dolph, Edmunds, Evans, Farwell, Fry, Hawley, Higgins, Hisecock, Har, Ingalls, Jones (Nev.), McMillan, Manderson, Mitchell, Moody, Pettigrew, Pierce, Platt, Plumb, Power, Quay, Sanders, Sawyer, Sherman, Spooner, Squire, Stewart, Stockbridge, Warburton, Wolcott—39.

Nays—Borah, Bate, Blackburn, Call, Carlisle, Cockrell, Coke, Colquitt, Daniel, Falkner, Gibson, Gorman, Hampton, Harris, Jones (Ark.), Kenna, McPherson, Paine, Pugh, Ransom, Reagan, Tarple, Vance, Vest, Voorhees, Walham—26.

The following pairs were announced: Hale and Gray, Chandler and Brown, Padlock and Eads, Teller and Berry, Wilson of Iowa and Wilson of Maryland.

MILLIONAIRE MILLS.

The Silver State comments as follows: The Reno-Journal says "that somebody ought to induce D. O. Mills, who is now on this coast, to spend a few dollars of the $1,000 a day the Virginia & Truckee Railroad is clearing for him in some manufacturing interest that would help out the State in which he is making so much money."

It was currently reported in Carson at the time the Silver Convention was held that D. O. Mills, who had been over his railroad, instructed Superintendent Yerington to use the influence of the company against free coinage. If that report was true and the fact that none of the magnates of the road participated in the proceedings indicated that it was, Mr. Mills need not be expected to do much for Nevada, except to keep passengers and freight rates on his road just low enough to prevent stage and mule team competition.

The people of Nevada, if they think they can maintain a State government long enough to make it an object, should amend the Constitution by removing the Capital from Carson to Reno, and in that way show millionaire Mills that they can reciprocate his kindness. Some good people in Carson would, of course, suffer financially from the removal of the Capital, but they would have the gratification of knowing that the Virginia & Truckee railroad would not gain by it. No doubt Reno would erect and donate to the State, without expense, a building fully as suitable for State purposes as that at Carson.

There are many people in Nevada, however, who believe that it cannot maintain a State government, and will eventually have to be annexed to Utah from which it is segregated thirty years ago. In that event the capital would have to go east of Reno so it would be advisable for the Constitutional Convention, which will doubtless be called, to determine whether the State should be annexed to Utah or California, or endeavor to maintain its Statehood by making expenses proportionate to its population and taxable property.

THE GOVERNORSHIP.

The Winnemucca Silver State takes this view of it:

According to reports from western Nevada H. M. Yerington, Superintendent of the Virginia & Truckee and Carson & Colorado Railroads, desires to name the Republican candidate for Governor. It is not yet publicly known whether he prefers Mr. Yerington to let him nominate his own man in the Republican Convention and have the people vote for the other fellow at the polls. That Mr. Yerington will be permitted to name the candidate in the convention there is scarcely a doubt, but it is not so certain that the voters will repudiate him at the ballot box. One of the troubles with Nevadaans is that while they pretend to be nauseated with boss rule in conventions, they embrace very bow to its decrees on election day.

EFFECT OF THE SILVER BILL.

The San Francisco Post is well pleased with the Conference bill, saying:

"The mining community in the Western States and Territories will hail as a happy relief the passage of the Silver bill in its present form. Although it does not grant all that could be desired in the way of extending the utility of the metal for coinage purposes, still it will be generally regarded as a victory over the monometallists and a stepping stone to further concessions in the future. It will, in the meantime, have a good effect on business interests which have been flagging for years, owing to the depressed condition of the mining industry. Old-time camps will regain all their original activity, and a stimulus will be given to the discovery and development of new districts."

Should the measure now pending in Congress be finally passed—and there is no very reason to believe that it will—the owners of productive silver mines can safely figure on an appreciation in the value of their bullion of from 20 to 25 percent on the low prices which have ruled in the open market for some years. It is questionable if pur will be reached, for some time at least, owing to the restrictions which have been placed on coinage. The more conservative class of bullion dealers are content to base their calculations for the future on a valuation ranging from $1.15 to $1.20 per ounce. Had the full amount of the monthly purchases by the Government been minted it might have been different, but the limitation in this respect will undoubtedly have a tendency to check any inflation in prices. That there will be a shortage of American silver cannot be denied, but any favorable effect this might have on the market will be minimized by the increase of foreign bullion imports which will follow. The total annual production of the United States at present only amounts to some six million dollars, of which at least twenty millions is base bullion, unsuited for minting purposes, and which is shipped abroad to be refined. This only leaves forty millions in the silver to meet the proposed requirements of the Government, which, at the lowest estimate, will be fifty-four millions of dollars, according to the market value of the bullion, without taking into account the large amount necessary for the arts and industrial purposes. The total production of Mexico last year was only valued at forty millions of dollars, an increase of some twelve or fifteen millions over that for the preceding year. A steady increased yield in this quarter is certain, of which a large proportion will be required in this country to make up the deficiency. That the output from the American mines will be largely increased there can be no doubt, but the margin is so wide that it will be years before we can depend for a supply upon the home production. Had a clause been inserted in the bill now under consideration providing that none but American silver should be purchased by the Government, it would, under the circumstances, have done much to enhance the value of the metal.

As it is, however, there should henceforth be no complaints of hard times heard from the mining regions. There will be plenty of work for willing hands and more money in circulation. The property of the West is largely dependent on the development of its mineral resources, and it is only just and proper that this should at last receive some consideration at the hands of those who legislate for the good of the nation.

The Charm of Good Manners.

No one who has any appreciation of grace and beauty in nature or in art can fail to recognize the charm of fine manners in an individual. We rejoice in them as we do in a lovely sunset view or a beautiful piece of architecture or a fascinating poem, for their own sake and for what they express; but even beyond this they have another attraction in the magnetic power they exert upon all beholders in setting them at ease, in sweeping away shyness, awkwardness and restraint, and in stimulating them to the expression of whatever is best worth cherishing within them. It is undoubtedly true that the presence of fine manners, whether it be in the home or the social circle, in the workshop or the counting-room, in the visit of charity or the halls of legislation, has an immediate effect in reproducing itself, in diffusing happiness, in developing the faculties and in eliciting the best that is in everybody.—N. Y. Ledger

A Chronicle Souvenir.

The JOURNAL acknowledges the receipt of a handsome medal issued as a souvenir of the 25th anniversary of the San Francisco Chronicle and the inauguration of the new Chronicle building. On the obverse side is a picture in relief of M. H. De Young and on the reverse a picture of the new Chronicle building.

In the Senate yesterday Senator Teller introduced a joint resolution declaring it to be the determined policy of the United States to issue both gold and silver as full legal tender money, and instructing the President to invite the Governments of the Latin American countries, and such other nations as he may deem advisable, to join the United States in a conference to adopt a common ratio between gold and silver for the purpose of establishing the international use of bi-metallic money and securing a fixity of the value between those metals, the conference to be held at such places as may be mutually agreed upon by the Executive of the Governments joining in it; and when, in the judgment of the President of the United States, a sufficient number of nations shall have entered into such international arrangement, he shall deem the ratio so fixed to be the existing ratio of the United States.

The President is to appoint not less than three nor more than five commissioners to attend such conference on the part of the United States, who are to receive $2,500 and expenses.

The resolution was referred to the Finance Committee.

Nevada has no need to revert to a Territorial form of Government. All she needs is to have within her means to maintain Statehood.

The Silver State says Mr. Colcord and Mr. Yerington "are only connected by railroad."

The silver dollar is all right.

TRUCKEE LUMBER COMPANY.

English Capitalists Making a Bid for It.

A San Francisco paper asserts that it has only transpired within the past few days that the capitalists of the British Empire, who, it is well known, have millions of pounds at their disposal, have cast their greedy eyes upon the forests of redwood and white pine which mark the State of California as a lumber district.

"Yes, there are such negotiations going on," said J. R. Marguire, Vice President of the Truckee Lumber Company, of San Francisco, in an interview. "I did not want to say anything about it though, and three times within the last two years we have been on the eve of closing out to syndicates, when there would be some impossible proposition sprung upon us, and we would have to stop negotiations. This might be a case of the same kind, and that reason, added to the likelihood of such a statement not being to our benefit otherwise, makes me disinclined to talk."

"It is an English syndicate that is making you the proposition, is it not?"

"It is. Last January I had the representatives of a very rich English bank call upon me, and they inquired into the lumber and forests of California. They had already been all over the State, but I did not know it, and when I went on to explain about certain tracts of forests they would chip in. I found that they knew more than I did about certain parts of the country."

A GIANTIC DEAL.

"It is said that the syndicate is going to buy up all of the lumber region possible and buy out every company. It is also said that to do this between $25,000,000 and $50,000,000 are to be invested. Is this true?"

"By no means. There is no one syndicate making such a deal. It is also untrue that these English syndicates buy out anything in toto. They don't do it. They always buy on the condition that certain bonds and stocks shall remain in the hands of the original owners. They have a purpose in this, to be sure, for that is the only way to inspire confidence in the public mind that the new purchasers are responsible. There is no better recommendation to a new management than to have the old management take stock in the property when it is no longer in their hands. They don't always keep the stock, though. I know of one case where the stock advanced 18 pence when put on the market and the original owners sold out completely. They had fulfilled their contract, though, and the people's confidence remained with the business. Besides not buying so completely of stock they do not buy many plants of the same kind. England does no care where her money is so long as it is insured 7 per cent on the capital invested. At present I understand that there are also negotiations being furthered to buy out one of my competitors."

THE STOCK EXAMINED.

The stock and everything belonging to the company were examined, and it was found that the whole was not large enough. The syndicate wanted to invest more money than the whole business could bring, so negotiations were suspended. Since then the company has bonded forest tracts and increased its value materially, so that, I suppose, a deal can now be brought about. That syndicate is not the one, however, that is trying to buy one of our places out."

"Then only a part of your company's possessions are about to be sold?"

"That is all. We have a large tract and plant at Truckee, another here as large as sugar pine tract as is in existence at Oroville and have interests in Oregon large enough to make it necessary to run a line of boats to do the business with San Francisco. Only one or two of these places are likely to be sold. About two years ago we had almost closed negotiations for the Oregon business for $2,000,000 and would have sold it had not the head man of the deal in England died. No one can tell until the deal is completed whether a purchase will be made. We won't sell unless we get our price, as our business is so valuable."

A Mugwump county ticket is talked of for Ormsby county this Fall. It will be downed as usual.—Carson Tribune.

WHAT IS SCROFULA

It is that impurity in the blood, which, accumulating in the glands of the neck, produces unsightly lumps or swellings; which causes painful running sores on the arms, legs, or feet; which develops ulcers in the eyes, ears, or nose, often causing blindness or deafness; which is the origin of pimples, cancerous growths, or the many other manifestations usually ascribed to "humors," which, fastening upon the lungs, causes consumption and death. Being the most ancient, it is the most general of all diseases or affections, for very few persons are entirely free from it.

How Can It Be CURED

By taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, by the remarkable cures it has accomplished, often when other medicines have failed, has proven itself to be a potent and peculiar medicine for this disease. Some of these cures are really wonderful. If you suffer from scrofula, be sure to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. "My daughter Mary was afflicted with scrofulous neck from the time she was 2 months old till she became six years of age. Lumps formed in her neck, and one of them after growing to the size of a pigeon's egg, became a running sore for over three years. We gave her Hood's Sarsaparilla, when the lump and all indications of scrofula entirely disappeared, and now she seems to be a healthy child." J. S. CARLISLE, Nauright, N. J.

AN ARAB SAYING.

Remember, three things come not back to the arrow sent upon its track:
It will not return, it will not stay
Its speed; it flies to wound or slay.

The spoken word, so soon forgot
By thee; but it has perished not;
In other hearts it lives and thrives
And doing work for good or ill.

And the lost opportunity
That cometh back no more to thee.
In vain thou woe'st, in vain dost yearn
Those three will never more return.
—Constantina E. Brooks in Century.

An Uncommon Royal Spectacle.

Appropos of grand dukes, it may be interesting to state that the czar has recently given the spectacle of an autocratic sovereign freely renouncing some of his privileges and reducing the amount of moneys attributed to members of his family out of the state budget. The empress, who received annually 600,000 rubles—a ruble is nearly equal to eighty cents—will get only 200,000 hereafter, and in case of widowhood her dowry will be reduced by one-half, if she resides outside of Russia. Instead of 300,000 rubles, the czarowitz will have only 100,000; and his wife 50,000 instead of 150,000, as now. On her husband's death she would get a pension of 100,000 rubles instead of 300,000, if she resides within the empire, and only 50,000 in case of her residing abroad. The grand dukes, brothers of the reigning czar, who received 100,000 rubles as a pension until now, will get no more than 30,000. The daughters and granddaughters of the emperor will receive from the state a dot of 1,000,000, and nothing more. Each son of the czar will get at his majority appanages bringing a determined income and 1,000,000 rubles toward the building and furnishing of a palace. Similar reductions have been ordered by the czar in regard to money appropriations made to other members of the imperial family.—New York Tribune.

The Brakeman's Loss.

There is danger that the modern passenger brakeman will die of ennui. On the Fort Wayne road there is now in process of testing a device which is to be operated by compressed air from the engineer's cab, and which is, in effect, a noiseless annunciator, quietly informing the passengers, through their eyes, not their ears, of the name of the next stopping place. This, if generally adopted, will rob the brakeman of the dear joy of shouting in an unknown tongue. One by one this official's duties have passed away. A decade ago he twisted the hand brake as vigorously, and often, than did his co-worker on the freight train. Air and the engineer now perform that arduous duty. Now comes the silent, air operated station annunciator. There are a few privileges, however, left to the passenger brakeman, which the man in the engine cannot take away. There are pretty girls to help on and off, fat women, babies, old men and packages unnumbered to look after. But the vocal training of the brakeman will be totally neglected, and he will at times sigh for the days when he could relieve his feelings by splitting some passenger's ear drum and emitting a language that Max Muller himself could not interpret.—Pittsburg Bulletin.

Queer Beliefs.

The Fijian canibals' emotions have reference for the greater part to food, so he worships the god Matawaloo, who has eight stomachs and is always eating.

The Tongans have a very curious dogma to account for a day and night being twenty-four hours long. It used to be less; the sun used to go down too quick. So one day a man caught it with a noose, and it had to go slower thereafter.

The ancient Peruvians believed that the sun once came down to the earth and laid two eggs and then went back again. From these two eggs men sprung.

The American Indians had a dogma that the sun was the one supreme god, and the moon was his wife. One tribe inhabiting a fearfully hot district worshipped the moon alone, saying that they had no use for the sun.

In the days of Columbus scientific dogmas asserted: If a ship should reach India she could never get back again, because the roundness of the globe would present a kind of mountain, upon which it would be impossible to sail even with the most favorable wind.—Boston Globe.

How to Wear High Heels.

"This prejudice against high heels is a mistake," remarked a shoemaker, as he prepared to place an addition "lift" upon the heel of a shoe which he held in his lap.

"It depends entirely upon the natural shape of the foot. People with a high instep require high heels, and it is only the flat footed who feel easy with low heels. "Slippers are positively injurious to most persons, especially if they attempt to do any unusual amount of walking in them. The low heels give no support to the ankles and cause the ankles to break down."

"Any person who finds it breaking in a new pair of shoes that there is a pain across the instep should know that once the heels of the shoes are too low. I am satisfied that children suffer a great deal from this cause. Every individual should learn by experience how high the heels of his shoes should be, and select accordingly."—Kansas City Globe.

A Fascinating Calling.

Almost every clerk in a mercantile house aspires to the position of traveling salesman. A boy admires the self complacency of a merchant traveler, the style he puts on, the seductive ways he relates, of which he always has a full store, and looks forward to a time when he may be able to follow the same avocation among the country merchants. Many of them who admire the calling make miserable failures of the business when they have an opportunity to try it. Others succeed without apparent effort, and become fascinated with the work. There are many salesmen on the road who could earn larger salaries in the city, but they prefer the bustle and excitement of traveling.—Drummer in St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Watching the Landmarks.

One of the most interesting studies of the habits of migratory fowl is the rare intelligence which they show in guiding themselves by prominent landmarks. An Englishman who was shooting in Labrador some years since recently stated that while in camp at the base of a range of hills he was interested in observing the precision with which flocks of wild geese changed their course when directly abreast of two prominent, conspicuous objects in the landscape. At that point they swerved from west to south. At times the old ganders, leading flocks of young birds, were greatly troubled in enforcing their orders for a shift of route.—Exchange.

Electricity in the Air.

In observations with kites and balloons Professor Leonard Veber has found that the atmosphere is negatively electrified up to a height of about 100 yards, beyond which it is positively electrified in a degree, increasing very rapidly with the distance from the earth. The negative electrification of the lower strata of the air is attributed to the presence of germs and dust particles.—New York Telegram.

NEW TO-DAY.

A LOVELY WOMAN

Overcome one, and of her, "By heaven she's painted!" "Yes," retorted the indignantly, "and by heaven only!" Buddy heath mumbled her answer, yet this beautiful lady, once this and pale, and suffering from a dry, hacking cough, night sweats, and spitting of blood, seemed destined to fill a consumptive's grave. After spending hundreds of dollars on physicians, without benefit, she tried Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery; her improvement was soon marked, and in a few months she was strong and rosy again, a perfect picture of health and strength. This wonderful "Golden Medical Discovery" is now world-famous as a remedy for consumption, which is really lung-scrophula, is not only an acknowledged remedy for that terribly fatal malady, when taken in time and given as directed, but also for all forms of Scrophulous, Skin, and Scalp Diseases, as White Swellings, Pimples, Eruptions, Eczema, Salt-rheum, Erysipelas, Boils, Carbuncles, Erysipelas, and kindred ailments. All scaly, crusty, itching, troublesome eruptions yield readily to its curative power. It invigorates the liver, enriches the blood and promotes all the bodily functions. It is the only blood purifier, and a positive guarantee that it will do all that it is recommended to, or money paid for it will be refunded.
